

Gay & Reitz, Attorneys at Law

Gay & Reitz, P.C. want you to feel comfortable about your experience with us. We have prepared some information that lets you know what to expect, how you can be prepared, and so on. Of course, if you have any questions that are not answered here, please feel free to ask any of our helpful, knowledgeable staff. We would be glad to help!

How to Prepare for your Court Date:

By the time you are scheduled to go to court, you should be completely prepared to say what you need to say, and to answer any questions that you may be asked. But there are sometimes other things that may be helpful to you and to your case that you should know about.

Get a good night's sleep. If you are well-rested, you will be better able to remember what you need to say.

Pay attention to your grooming. You want to make a good impression, so be sure that your hair is neatly combed, and that your clothes are clean and pressed. Dark suits or dresses are best; this is not the time to wear short skirts or jeans that hang down around your hips.

Speak clearly and slowly. Most of us talk too fast when we are excited, and it is can be hard for people to understand us and what we are trying to say.
